WHEN BABYHOOD DAYS END

All Mothers Have Had, or Will Have, the Experience of Which These Three Were Talking.

The mothers were discussing-well, what do you suppose mothers usually discuss? Their children, of course. And the topic under discussion was: When is your manchild no longer your baby boy?"

Said one mother: "The first day my boy went to school I cried and cried, for I knew I had lost my baby." "Oh, but I lost mine the first day he put on trousers," said another. "And I didn't feel mine was gone until he asked: 'Please, mother, only kiss me when we're alone."

"Well," said another, "although my boy is a great, husky lad, I still feel he is my baby. I'm always expecting him to rebel, and when he does, then It's good-by, baby boy; but he still allows me to kiss away the pain of his bumps and bruises!" And she beamed with a smile triumphant, while the other mothers positively looked en-

Virtue of Self-Expression.

If children are allowed to give vent to all that is joyous and happy and spontaneous in their natures, they will be infinitely more likely to blossom out into helpful men and women, instead of sedate, suppressed, sad-faced individuals. Children who are encouraged in self-expression through their play instinct will not only make much more normal human beings, but will make better business men, better professional men, better citizens, better men and women generally. They will succeed better and have a nobler infiuence in the world. Joy and fun are great developers, calling out our richest resources, educating our fuller powers.-Nautilus.

questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Sometimes it is necessary to build house to fit a narrow lot. As a general thing lots are deep enough to hold almost any kind of a house. Few lots in American cities are less than one hundred feet front to back, but because of expensive street improvements they are often squeezed sideways until houses get to be very close neighbors. It is unfortunate that it is so but we have to take conditions as we find them and make the best of them. Sometimes these narrow lots are in very desirable neighborhoods, convenient to transportation and convenient for other reasons; and by building a house to fit the lot such property may be made very comfortable and attractive.

This design shows a house only feet wide, but the length is feet 6 inches, exclusive of the front porch. Such a shape necessarily requires that one room shall follow another, sometimes with a very long dark narrow hall, but this plan avoids that difficulty by putting a room at the back end of the hall and by connecting the kitchen with the dining room by way of the pantry.

Then the upper part of the house is laid out with a bedroom in each end and a bathroom opposite the upper hallway in the center. This arrangement requires that the bathroom shall be lighted by a dormer window, the design of which is very neat and attractive. It adds a great deal to the appearance of the house because it is ornamental as well as useful. Such attachments make up the difference between a common cheap looking house and a satisfactory, useful, ornamental habitation that is at once very pleasing and interesting. So-called cottage houses with one gable end towards the street are as common as house flies in the cheaper sections of some cities. You may count them by the hundreds and they are all practically alike; cheap tenehouses that cost very little more to rent for double that amount simply because they were built attractively and contained modern means of heating and with plumbing connections so the different members of the family could keep themselves clean.

A great deal depends on the plan as well as the convenience and the outside appearance. It is an art that seems difficult to acquire, the building of small artistic, comfortable houses. but it is an art well worth studying.

Such houses should be a great deal more common than they are. It would prevent families who like to live nicely from crowding into flat buildings where they have neither light nor sufficient air. This is another excuse for narrow lots. A 50-foot lot would hold two such houses and make comfortable living quarters for two families instead of one.

Overproduction.

Emanuel Geibel, a German lyric poet of the nineteenth century, wrote delightful verses. For some of his youthful readers, however, his poems had no charm. One boy voiced his own and his mates' grievance in a letter to the poet that Das Buch fur Alle reprints:

Dance Has Had Various Names. Speculations on the correct spelling and pronunciation of tango as a dance recall the fact that there were similar doubts about the waltz, which, when introduced just a century ago, was scolded in terms very similar to those now applied to the tango. Waitz has had many different spellings. Its first form was as "lavolta" in old Provence. Drowsiness in Church.

Why bald heads ned in church, to the great annoyance of ministers has been discovered by Ralph Eyre of Osceola, Iowa, a senior electrical engisity. Mr. Eyre has found the scienmen are prone to fall asleep in church unfortunate fact. "A glaring light besiness," Mr. Eyre reasoned. "Men with are less protected from glaring lights | with perfect epidermis. than those blessed with abundant hair. Women who wear hats that shade their eyes have little difficulty keeping awake. A little care in placing lights | mestic use. in a church will have all the difference in the world."-Exchange.

Bitter Sweet.

It happened at one of those places where one goes to dine and dance. The cheerful young man about town blew in and was adopted into a perfectly good bohemian party. Attached somehow to the perfectly good bohemian party was a young woman with that weary, haughty air so much in favor in the younger tango set The cheerful youth asked her to do a hesitation waltz with him. She didn't mind if she did. But after they had made a few turns about the room she led her partner back to the table. "Honey," she said languidly, "you must go somewhere and learn to dance.'

This is Awful. "What is your attitude toward the "Antangonistic, sir."

"VITAL FORCE"

Disease germs are on every hand. They are in the very air we breathe. A system 'run down' is a prey for them. One must have vital force to withstand them. Vital force depends on digestion—on whether or not food nourishes—on the quality of blood coursing through the body.
